AMERICAN FLUOR SPAR CO.

Produced and Shipped Over Thirteen Million Pounds During the Year 1907.

The American Fluor Spar Company, a Kentucky incorporation has produced and shipped to twenty-six consumers during the seven months of its business life 13,471,300 pounds of fluor spar divided as follows:

Ground Fluor Spar	1,138,000 lbs.
Lump	2,678,000 "
Gravel	9,654,400 "

These shipments represent a value of $43,678.43 and required some 250 cars for its transportation. It is interesting also to note the wide area that fluor spar covers as for instance this large tonnage was shipped Westward to Colorado, North to the mountains of British Columbia, East to the Atlantic coast and South to Alabama and South Carolina.

The gradual growing use of this beautiful and useful mineral is well exemplified in the above statement and it may be added that small shipments were made in addition to the above to forty-eight of the smaller founders scattered throughout the country at large. The officials of this company being in somewhat close touch with a great number of consumers would respectfully suggest to the miners of fluor spar in the Kentucky as well as in portions of the Illinois district that greater care should be taken in preparing this mineral for market. The day of dirty, silicious spar has passed, so far as its sale to the consumer is concerned. In fact such a product is not wanted anywhere and even freight will not be paid on such material by the plants to whom it is consigned. The money value of a clean cut fluor spar is so much greater that it seems suicidal for any mining company to neglect proper dressing and cleaning of this product.

Fluor spar will always be one of the safest investments that money can be put into. Time or exposure does not in the least effect its value. During the present season we have shipped an old dump of spar that from all obtainable records has been exposed to wind and weather for some forty-eight years and its makeup was as strong as the day it was mined. While demand will vary from time to time its a very positive sure money producing product as the steel plants must use it and the entire mining and smelting people are doing so. Kentucky and Illinois fluor spar is now being used in many separating plants in Mexico, Colorado, British Columbia, Honduras, Chili and San Salvador.

The recent money scare is rapidly passing and the reinstatement of suspended orders has to an extent commenced. Naturally during this period most of us had to exercise a lot of patience and wait for remittances, always hoping that the other fellow wouldn't go into bankruptcy before his check could be cashed.

We desire to thank the many mining companies of Kentucky and Illinois with whom we had dealings for exercising that rare virtue. We expect it was tough at times to hold in, but all the waiting days were over so far as this company was concerned on the fourth day of January, all known claims being paid that day.

We hope to put more dollars into the Kentucky district the coming season as well as in the Illinois section, but it will be for a good, clean fluor spar. We do not want a product composed of a good deal of sand, a whole lot of red clay or loam and a sprinkling of fluor spar, in other words no unwashed Kentucky fluor spar for us, at least not any more, not if we know it. We will buy at a strong price first class fluor spar of any class and pay currency on delivery if desired during the year 1908.

The Bee Hive.

On account of the hustle and bustle around the Press building where Davis & Davis, Dave Moore are doing a rushing business coupled with the Postal Telegraph Co., and McConnell's barber shop a new name has been given the building, that of "The Beehive."

In the basement the CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS has its quarters and here may be found at times the President of the Marion Electric & Ice Company.

The PRESS force consisting of Robt. E. Wilborn, foreman, Mrs. May Wilborn, Elmer Franklin, Cleveland Stone, also Valentine Threlkeld, on "press days."

At Davis & Davis, No. 1 beehive block are the two members of the firm at all times.

At McConnell's Parlor Barber Shop No. 2 beehive block, Walter McConnell, Winfred Steamaker and Ed Shelly.

At the Postal Office, No. 3 beehive block, Miss Mary Cameron, Mrs. Henrie Lamb and Miss Leasha Wilborn, who is Wall Street Agent for the RECORD-PRESS.

At The Marion Saddlery & Harness Co., No. 4 beehive block, Dave Moore has charge and in the room adjoining, M. L. Rison does repair work on shoes.

In the story above Dr. Geo. W. Stone, Oculist, has suite 1 and 2.

Dr. F. W. Nunn, suite 3 and 4.

J. B. Kevil and R. L. Flanary, Insurance, offices in suite 5.

Champion & Champion, attorneys in suite 6.

W. H. Clark, attorney in suite 7.

Davis & Davis, pressing department in suite 10.

A party who kept count one day recently estimated that not less than 1,000 people entered this building at the various shops and places of business during the 24 hours, and they were hunting everything from a copy of the CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS to a set of teeth on a good plate, sometimes there are a dozen at one time in Dr. Nunn's office and equally as many in McConnell's barber shop.

BITS OF BY-PLAY.

As the baseball season approaches some of the old timers tell reminiscences of the olden time while seated around the big stove in the dry goods stores. Mr. J. C. Elder, Jr., relates of the first experiences with the curved ball. Four posts were set in the ground in a straight line and the pitcher had to establish his right to the box by pitching a ball that would weave in and out and not hit a post. Dan Bigham occupied the important post of first baseman and the way he put a base runner out was to hit him where his suspenders crossed. Every sure shot of this kind was proclaimed by the umpire shouting, "You are out." Great ball was played in the olden time.

It has been said that Ex-Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, can make a better impromptu speech than one prepared. Through long years of study and experience his mind draws from its hidden files material for anything on which he wishes to speak, and the laborious effort of preparation is thereby not necessary. This is a gift sometimes possessed by those who write poetry. The writer recalls a case in point, the principals of which will be familiar to all. It occurred several years ago. Prof. Charles Evans was acting toastmaster for a class of high school graduates in the Marion Opera House. Miss Jennie Bell had just delivered her speech and the applause had not died away when a young post graduate seized his penel and wrote rapidly on the back of a card the following:

Miss Jennie Bell,
I'm glad to tell,
You did so well
You will excel
Through life's fair dell,
Adieu--farewell,
P. D. Maxwell.

Old man Harvey King lived near Shady Grove, Ky. The old gentleman could not hear very well. One day he walked into Mr. Jeff Elder's drug store and said,

"Jeff, I want some tablets like I got here the other day. What's their name?"

"Codene tablets," replied Mr. Elder.

Mr. King's right hand went behind his ear as he repeated, "Joe Deau, did you say?"

A BOY WITH A MAINSPRING.

When Levi Cook, the jeweler, examines your watch he carefully tests the most important part, the mainspring. If this is not sound and strong it must be replaced by one that is before he can place the watch in good order. It is absolutely necessary that the mainspring be the very best. It must be placed just right. It must not take too long to wind up. It must not break or fail at critical times. THE RECORD-PRESS believes that every boy, to be much account in this world, must have the right sort of mainspring to drive him forward and onward to higher achievement. It must be the very best and placed right. It must not too long to wind up. It must not fail at critical times. It must be directed right. This mainspring might be defined as ambition or energy. By it the world moves and men write their names high on the roll of fame. There is a boy in the town of Marion who reminds us of A Boy With a Mainspring. His every motion betokens, not one but many. In fact there must be mainsprings in his heels. He walks with an elastic, springy step and reminds you of a Japanese soldier marching under hurry orders. By sheer force of will he has evolved a good business and if the RECORD-PRESS is not mistaken his example will teach other Marion boys that "labor conquers all things."

Mining Notes.

The bankruptcy proceedings in the matter of John Mulholland of the Fairview mines will not effect that property, it appearing that Mr. Mulholland really owns but two shares of the capital stock and that the land, etc., comprising the plant is valued at some $250,000. The shipments from Fairview of the various grades of fluor spar are unceasing, last week fourteen cars were moved amounting to something over 600 tons.

Rev. Mr. Montgomery, formerly of Marion, was instrumental in selling the Griffith property near Elizabethtown and now has charge of its workings. This is assumed to be the most northerly section of the Roseclaire vein and possibly thirty to forty tons of fluor spar has been raised.

The new separating plant of the Cave-in-Rock Mining Company, six miles north of Elizabethtown, is about ready to commence its daily operations. The mill is of steel and concrete construction and bids fair to do good clean work when supplied with fluor spar.

The Rosiclaire mine is shipping its usual quota some seven cars of lump, gravel and ground weekly via the Ohio river packets to Evansville. The American Fluor Spar Company are handling most of the Roseclaire output.

The low price paid for lead concentrates hardly 50 per cent. of that prevailing a few months since is working a distinct hardship on the miners producing a heavy loaded fluor spar. The Miller property at Cave-in-Rock is doing but very little on that account, while the Robertson mine has ceased, entirely.

The Pierce Fluor Spar Company at Goleonda continues mining fluor spar during the winter at their open cut mines some fifteen miles from the river. They will not move this product until later in the season when good roads prevail. This fluor spar last season was nearly all ground at their mill at Goleonda and sold through Mr. George Roberts, of Mariou.

The Hamp mine some distance out of Elizabethtown was capitalized last season and power machinery installed. The grade or quality mined is practically perfect, in color and percentage, and last season's output was sold to the American Fluor Spar Co., of Paducah, at a very high price.

The Stewart mines, some three miles from the river and not far from the Fall, has been actively at work since early fall. The output of lump and gravel amounts to a very satisfactory tonnage. The American Fluor Spar Co. loads this output at Shetterville on barges and has it towed to Joppa for rail shipment over the Frisco lines. An output of fluor spar on the Stewart vein which seems to be the only real parallel vein yet discovered, running some three miles from the Rosiclaire looks very promising for a mine. Ulysses Gullett, of Elizabethtown, will probably do some prospect work at this point a mile or two from the Stewart mine and it is very likely another good property will be opened.

The Kentucky Geological report on fluor spar and metric tons was duly received and proved very interesting. The authors, F. Julius Folsom who covers the fluor spar deposits, and C. S. Nunn, who explains what metric tons are and how much they weigh, are entitled to great credit for their lucid explanatory work. The illustrations in their volume, especially of the supposedly "loop the loop" slides at the Memphis mine are perhaps better understood by the miners who work at the mine than by the artist who made the sketch, anyhow its mighty nice and comprehensive.

BOTH HOUSES ADJOURN

And Are Entertained by a Speech by Hon. W. J. Bryan.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 21.—There was no joint ballot of the Legislature today, both the House and Senate voting to adjourn until tomorrow, in order to give a better opportunity to the legislators to hear William Jennings Bryan. The vote in single ballot resulted as follows: House—Beckham: 48; Bradley, 47; McCreary, 2; Baird, 1. In the Senate the vote was: Beckham, 17; Bradley, McCreary, 3.

The halls of the Capital and the House of Representatives were crowded when Mr. Bryan, the leader of the General Assembly, arose to address the Legislature. He was greeted with rousing cheers from the floor and galleries, and seemed to enjoy his reception. He began speaking at once, being introduced by Representative Schobert, of Woodford county.

Speaker Gooch requested Mr. Schobert to preside during the address. Mr. Schobert said Mr. Bryan was a Christian gentleman above all things, and this is his crowning glory.

Mr. Bryan asked in the beginning that the Democratic members of the House and Senate at the close of his address, when he wanted to talk Democracy to them.

After stating that he came to address the members of the Legislature Mr. Bryan said he would speak with perfect propriety when speaking to those who belong to other parties as well as his own. He said there were two theories in present day Democracy, the aristocrat and the Democrat.

He quoted Jefferson in making this statement. He said this is true now as well as when Jefferson said it.

"In all countries there are two parties all the time and always the aristocratic party, distrusting the people, and the Democratic, trying to get in close touch with the people.

"An aristocrat is not easily converted into a Democrat. He must be born again." I believe that at heart a large majority of those who call themselves Republicans are Democrats. For this reason I visit Legislatures of all parties. Occasionally these aristocrats get into the legislature," he continued.

"The embezzlement of power is as great a crime as the embezzlement of money," he said. Here he took a shot at the man who is elected and then goes to a legislative hall and votes against the wishes of the people who sent him. "I hope the time will come when such betrayers will be whipped from power," said Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Bryan evoked continued cheering when he declared that those legislators who are too conscientious to vote as those who elect them want, they should be conscientious enough to resign their office. This point he reiterated with much vigor, and this sentiment seemed to strike a popular chord. At different times in his address he made emphatic references to the lack of Democracy evidenced when a legislator persistently misrepresented his constituents.

LINCOLN-BRECKINRIDGE

To Clasp Hands Under Time-Honored
Motto on Seal.

The likeness of the great Commander Henry Clay, is not to displace the picture of the late Gov. William Goebel upon the official checks of the State of Kentucky, after all. Gov. Willson yesterday notified State Superintendent of printing, J. W. Hedden to rescind the order for the picture of Clay. He said that he had decided to adorn the checks with an engraving of the great seal of Kentucky.

The Governor has designed new figures for the seal, which he believes will carry out to a better extent the two figures grasping hands, under the motto, "United, We Stand; Divided, We Fall." The Governor says that the seal was adopted in the days of the Whigs and old Democrats; now the Whig party is no more, so he believes that a seal with a more modern application would prove more suitable. Accordingly he has made inquiries of leading citizens and students, and says that the consensus of opinion was that the late General John C. Breckinridge could stand as a more typical Democrat, than anyone thought of. Of course Abraham Lincoln, a native of Kentucky, was chosen as the Republican. The new seals will bear the two male figures shaking hands under the time-honored motto, and one of the men will have the features of General Breckinridge, while the other will be that of President Lincoln.

The Governor believes that such a plan will meet the entire approval of all the people of the Commonwealth. —Frankfort Journal.

Hog Cholera.

The greatest drawback to the hog industry which breeders in this country have to contend with is what is known as "hog cholera" and "swine plague."

Hog cholera is a highly contagious disease and unless checked is liable to carry off a great number of hogs in a very short time.

Mr. A. P. Williams, of Burnetts Creek, Ind., tells of an experience which he had with some hogs that had cholera.

"Five years ago," says Mr. Williams, "I was in the employ of Mr. J. D. Richardson, Lafayette, Ind., as his barn foreman. Some fine hogs that I was feeding took the cholera. I gave them Sloan's Liniment and did not lose a hog. Some were so bad they would not drink sweet milk and I was compelled to drench them. I have tried it at every opportunity since and always find it O. K."

New Orleans, Jan. 17.—At a general reception attended practically by Kentuckians and the New Orleans delegation, citizens from Paducah, Ky., this afternoon formally presented a handsome silver service to the gunboat which bears the name of the latter city. The presentation was made on board the Paducah, anchored in the Mississippi river at New Orleans.

Former Congressman Charles K. Wheeler, of Kentucky, made the presentation speech. The service was accepted in the name of the officers and men by Commander Thomas D. Griffin.

Miss Anna Mac Yeiser, daughter of former Mayor D. H. Yeiser, of Paducah, acted as sponsor for the occasion.

The silver service consists of a large salver on which rests a massive punch bowl with a ladle. Twenty-four silver goblets are also included in the service.

Mayor Behrman, of New Orleans, attended the presentation as the representative of this city.

Obituary.

The death Angel has visited our community and taken from the home of J. J. Hughes the beloved wife. Mrs Hughes was in her sixty eighth year. She was a Mrs. Dollins before she was married to J. J. Hughes in 1889, in which they lived a happy union until Jan. 10th when God saw fit to take her from this earthly home to a home beyond the sky. She was sick only eight days and died of that dreadful disease pneumonia fever.

We never heard her murmur at all. Her suffering was great but she bore it so brave and noble until God saw fit to relieve her of her suffering by taking her home with him.

She was a devoted wife and a loving mother, and leaves a husband, one daughter, five stepsons and daughter-in-laws to mourn her loss.

We know by her every day life that she a noble Christian. Dear Father weep not far your loved one for she has crossed the dark river and is waiting for you on that beautiful shore and it will not be long until you will meet her and she will be there at the pearly gate to welcome you in.

Dear Julia weep not for your mother but lives so as to meet you in that beautiful city where there is no sickness, no sorrows nor deaths but where all is peace and love. Dear Brothers strive to do right and meet your mother in Heaven.

Nellie had kind and sweet disposition; easily led from the wrong into the right. She loved to go to church. She loved to sing, and could sing several songs. All was done that love could suggest to keep her with us, but God took her to Himself.

A lovely bud from the garden of love,

Hath passed in its beauty away.

To extend its sweets in the Eden above

And rejoice in the light of day.

Weep not that her form now sleeps in the tomb

Fond mother reposes that sight; In angelic beauty thy Nellie will bloom,

In her glorious home in the sky.

And there she is waiting for thee even now,

In her own light, beautiful home.

And the smile grows bright that wreathes her brow,

For she knows her mother will come.

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with "Preventics" is safer than to let it run and be obliged to treat it afterwards. To be sure of victory all cure early. Deeply cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off those early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called "Preventics."

"Preventics" is only 25c. No Quinine, no phisic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children, and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of "Preventics." Promises mean nothing if they are not kept. And don't forget your cold. If there is feverishness, night or day, Heroin probably lies "Preventics'" greatest efficiency. Sold in 25c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48 "Preventics." Insist on your druggist giving you

The Childhood of the Boy.

In the boy's childhood, a delightful period just over, since he now looks down on his recent compeers as "kids," and copies wistfully the ways of boys a little older than himself, he went to school; he also played baseball and football, tore his clothing and wore out his shoes to the despair of his parents. Bright, clever and obliging, he ran on the family errands, and suffered a thousand interruptions of his own affairs without a murmur. During this fitting season he was in unconscious preparation for his whole future.

Everybody in the land is being trained by his mother to live by and by under the roof of strangers. He will carry into adult life the impression she gives his character. As clerk, as apprentice, as professional man, the grown-up boy will manifest the traits he is acquiring now. As husband to his wife he will show the wisdom or the folly of his mother's moulding.

This thought should come home to every mother.

As a bachelor at large without domestic ties, if that be his future condition, he will illustrate in the households of his friends, and as a man of much value to society, the teachings and examples of his boyhood. During the first merry, care-free, blithe and beautiful dozen years of his existence he should be treated with the same attention to elemental principles as his sisters, and be made to conform to their standards.—Ex.

John 111.

Review.

JESUS THE SAVIOUR OF THE WORLD.

- How many times is John the Baptist mentioned in the Gospel of John?
- What is he called in the Gospel of John?
- What in the other three Gospels?
- Why this difference?
- Why is John the Baptist's testimony prominent in these first chapters?
- What was the effect of John's testimony on the people? (Form your opinion first, and then see John 10:41 and see if you agree).
- What would cause John to study the characteristics of the Messiah?
- Did Christ ever appeal to the testimony of John? 5:33-35.
- On what various occasions did John the Baptist testify?
- What were the facts to which he testified?

REMARKS.

We have two teachers, Jesus and Nicodemus; two births, the natural and the spiritual, two realms, the heavenly and the earthly; two kinds of people, the believer and the unbeliever, two results, salvation and condemnation; two characteristics of these realms, light and darkness; two divine persons, God and Son; two destinies, everlasting life, eternal death.

SEARCH QUESTIONS.

- How long did the Passover festival last?
- When did the Nicodemus incident take place?
- What success did Jesus have in Jerusalem?
- How was this activity related to his Messianic work?
- How does John use the word signs?
- How came the serpent in the wilderness to be lifted up?
- How does the one born of the Spirit resemble the wind's movement?
- What O. T. analogy most the Son of Man fulfill?
- Did Christ ever baptize?

Don't Kill.

The quails that were left over this season are said to be more abundant than usual. While they were hunted a good deal, they seemed to have taken care of themselves pretty well, and learned to elude the keen scent of the setter, or fly out of range of the scatter guns. Deep snows or steets are most deadly to them, locking up their natural food and furnishing opportunities for depredations of wild animals, hawks and pot-hunters. A little timely care on such occasions, will insure a good crop for another season. Instead of killing suppose we feed them.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our sincere gratitude and heart-felt thanks to the good people who so kindly assisted us in our recent afflictions, and burial of our beloved wife and mother. May God's richest blessings rest upon you all.

Newspapers and the Panic.

In discussing the financial flurry a Chicago magazine of politics remarks that the newspapers did some noble lying, all with the best of motives, of course—that of restoring confidence.

Commenting on this statement the Portland Oregonian pointedly says: "Results do not indicate that the newspapers did so much lying after all. It is true the newspapers took the brightest view of a dismal situation and perhaps they were more hopeful in public utterance than their editors were in private consultation. Their declaration, oft repeated in varying form, was that industrial and financial conditions presented no occasion for alarm and that the banks in general were sound.

The newspapers did everything in their power to quiet the people, dispel the fears of depositors and restore confidence. Subsequent events show that this course was entirely in accordance with facts and warranted by conditions as they existed. Beyond doubt, if the newspapers had thrown open their columns to the publication of every discouraging bit of news or had even left matters to drift as unreliable street rumors might direct, there would have been serious consequences. By suppressing the cries of fear and counseling calm and considerate action, the newspapers of the country prevented a disastrous financial panic just as public speakers sometimes prevent calamities when fear seizes an audience in a crowded hall.

"So far as they told anything, the newspapers told the truth. If they did not tell the whole truth it was because no good was to be accomplished by telling it. If the newspapers could tell all the truth they learn every day about the affairs and acts of the people there would be a great many panics, not only in business but in home circles. There are few people in this world who want all the truth told about them and their affairs.

The newspapers have not been lying and there is no occasion for the public to lose confidence in them. On the contrary, events have demonstrated that the newspapers are worthy of confidence, for their counsel in critical situations has been found to be wise."

The Oregonian covers the case completely. It states the position of every thoughtful paper in the country, but not of the yellow class or its twin brothers, the malicious bearers of false statements in innumerable baseless charges, etc.

Rank Foolishness

"When attacked by a cough or cold or when your throat is sore, it is rank foolishness to take any other medicine than Dr. King's New Discovery," says C. O. Eldridge, of Empire, Ga. "I have used New Discovery for seven years and I know it to be the best remedy on earth for coughs and colds, croup, and all throat and lung troubles. My children are subject to croup, but New Discovery quickly cures every attack." Known the world over as the King of throat and lung remedies. Sold under guarantee at Jas. H. Orme and Haynes & Taylor drug store, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Little Clifton Butler Dead.

The death angel has again visited the home of Mall Butler and plucked the flower of the family, taking away little Clifton to live with God and the angels. He was a beautiful little flower and loved by all who knew him. He was six years and five months old. He died Dec. fourth and was buried Dec. eighth at Crooked Creek. He died with congestion of the heart. He leaves a mother, father and three sisters, Ada and Nellie at home, and Mrs. Ida Williams, of Whitney, Mo., and three brothers, Eld and Henry at home and Phil, of Crittenden Springs and a host of friends to mourn his loss. He has gone to sleep but not forever, he will be wakened at the judgement. He was the baby and a bright little flower in his home. He rose up in his dying bed and said mother I'm dying and he was gone to God. Little Clifton is a bright little angel in heaven.

His death was shocking to his people and friends, but God said, suffer little children and come unto me and God sent a death angel and took little Clifton to heaven and the little white casket will ever be an indelible picture in the mind of the dear parents, they will miss him yet when they think of the many sorrows he has escaped, good with blessed hope of an eternal reunion in the home above where sickness and sorrow is no more.

There a smile for every sigh, For every wound a balm.

A joy for every moistened eye, For every storm a calm.

Each tear is sent a smile to light, Each wound in mercy given.

Each tear filled eye will yet be bright,

Each storm be stilled in heaven.

HAYNES & TAYLOR

This woman says that sick women should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she did.

Mrs. A. Gregory, of 2355 Lawrence St., Denver, Colo., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was practically an invalid for six years, on account of female troubles. I underwent an operation by the doctor's advice, but in few months I was worse than before. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to perfect health, such as I have not enjoyed in many years. Any woman suffering as I did with backache, bearing-down pains, and periodic pains, should not fail to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulence, indigestion, diarrhea, nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has helped thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Tribute to W. H. Walker.

Judge W. H. Walker was born Sept. 18, 1839 and lived until he was 9 years old on the farm where John S. Coxley now lives, near Tribune, then he moved with his father to the George Lamb place near Iron Hill, in this county, where he resided until a few years ago, when he moved to East Marion a few years ago, where he died Jan. 17, 1908. He was laid to rest in the Sugar Grove Cemetery on the 18th. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. T. Oakley who said many beautiful things about the life of Brother Hale.

He professed religion and joined the C. P. Church at Sugar Grove some time in the '60's and lived a consistent member of said church until he moved to Marion and was clerk of the session for 27 years.

He was married to Miss Mary Bell Maxwell April 1886. Four children were born to this union. One was S. M. Walker and three others who died in infancy. They just opened their sweet loving eyes on this beautiful world where they lingered a few short hours and floated away into the realms of eternal beauty. Their mother followed them on the 26th day of June 1888. He was elected police judge of Marion in 1905.

His mind loved to linger about the scene of his childhood home and the friends of his boyhood and during the long nights that we sat with him during his last sickness he frequently talked of them and at such times his face shone with such a joy that his looked to be almost inspired, which recalled to my mind the beautiful refrain of an unknown poet.

We talked of heaven and Jesus and the beautiful land far away and Hale always said that heaven seemed to be very near to him. It always seemed impossible for us to realize that it was the truth, that Hale had to die, although the doctor said so. But now we know that he has gone from us and we have nothing but a memory and a grace, but we love that memory as we love our God and know that he is immortal because love is immortal and the hope of immortality originated in love. For when our loved ones die we hope to meet them again.

We know that we will meet them and greet them and clasp hands with them and that they will live again, for Jesus hath said "I am the resurrection and the life whosoever believeth in me, through he were dead, he shall live again and whosoever liveth and believeth on me shall never die."

So we are waiting for them, we are watching for them, we are longing for the hour to come when we shall greet them and waking we count the hours till their coming, when asleep their images glide through our dreams, by day they smile on us in the landscape, by night they beam down upon us from the starry skies, beyond where they are holding out their hands to us with a smile and a welcome.

We cannot close this sketch until we express our eternal gratitude to the good people of Marion for their good care and the loving kindness which they extended to our dear brother during his long spell of sickness. It was always my pride to boast that my home is in the Asparagus head of the Garden of God's country. I take off my hat to those people, especially some of the noble women who hovered around him like ministering angels while he lived and when he died they covered his coffin and his grave with beautiful flowers. As I say by my dear brother from day to day and noted their unselfish devotion and how they vied with each other in carrying those tokens of love to him and their kind considerations for myself and my daughter who were strangers to some of them. I thought surely this is the very highest reach of true and noble womanhood. I often wonder if these women knew that they were good. I wonder if their friends ever praised them for their goodness. I often wonder if their families appreciate them and acknowledge them the light of their homes.

Obituary.

Naomi Minner, daughter of Thomas and Mary E. Minner, was born in Crittenden County, Ky., Oct. 13th, 1889, and fell on sleep, September 27th, 1907. She died at Fredericktown, Mo., where she had gone to attend the Marvin College, (a Methodist School) to finish her music, and take a business course. This was her request, and the great desire of her life, was to give herself the best preparation possible. She entered school with a very bright future, but how soon was she disappointed and her prospects blighted. She only got to attend school a short while, when she was taken with malaria, but not thought to be very sick. Her father was soon called to her bedside, with the very best medical aid, and after a few days of medical treatment she improved sufficiently that the Doctor said she could be sent home safely. As she had been without fever several days, her father wrote home to her mother that she would be at home Saturday afternoon on the four o'clock train with him, and she also wrote to her mother the same morning telling her to arrange the room for her, and she did so, preparing the room in the most comfortable manner, thinking that Naomi would soon be at home where she could give her daughter the best care and her personal attention. But alas! the sad news came that night that dear Naomi was dead. How sad and disappointing this to the dear mother who, hearing it fell prostrate with grief. The train that was to bring Naomi home, brought a white casket with her remains. She died without a moments warning, from heart failure.

This was almost a death shock to her family. While her stay was of but a few weeks in the College she had gained the confidence of all teachers and dormitory girls, all loved her and she was a friend to all. She was always cheerful and pleasant, made herself agreeable where-ever she went.

The beautiful floral offering sent by the faculty, teachers and students of the college, in care of one of the college girls, showed the love and esteem by which she was held. Also the home floral offerings were beautiful and impressive.

Her great adornment was a true christian character. Since her home has been in our midst, she has been a regular attendant at church and sabbath school, a faithful organist at one of my church's, before leaving for school. Her life and character was such as to gather about her a large circle of friends. She was converted and joined the church two years ago.

Her funeral was conducted by the writer, being assisted by Bro. J. M. Eggleton, of the St. Louis Conference, in the midst of a large congregation.

She leaves a grief stricken father, mother and two precious brothers, Edward and Cecil Minner, many relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

The remains were laid away in the Morley cemetery to wait the call of God, while her spirit has answered the call, come up higher.

May the sustaining grace of God be granted the bereaved ones.

The United States government recently waived the Civil Service examination in order to induce stenographers to go to the Isthmus of Panama to do stenographic work at $125 per month. There has never been as urgent and unceasing demands for stenographers in all the history of this country.

The Business University at Bowling Green, Kentucky, trains as many good stenographers as any other business institution in America, and yet, it is unable to supply even half the calls made upon it for stenographers.

New Year Dinner.

Mr. Editor.—The year of 1907 is gone, its blessings, privileges and opportunities are remembered with things of the past. Some are as nuggets of gold to me, and now the first day of 1908 finds 30 people gathered at the home of J. A. Pickens, to spend the day with him and family.

He had prepared to entertain all his nearest neighbors. We were having a fine time in social conversation, when the call was made for dinner. Now this first call of course meant the prettiest of course, and this includes;—Messrs. F. I. Travis, A. A. Deboe, Dr. Perry, Hunter Lamb, Nute Thomas, P. C. Lamb, Homer Paris, W. J. Hill and Mmes. R. L. Wilson, F. I. Travis, Dr. Perry and P. J. Hill. This was the first table and it seemed from the way they ate, they had been taking appetizer.

Now if I can, I will tell you what was on that table;—Beef roast, turkey, spare ribs, chicken, corn bread and biscuit. Oh! a variety of pies and cakes and in fact everything you could think of, that was good. It was certainly a fine place for a hungry man.

The dining room was beautifully decorated.

If you could have seen F. I. Travis eat with his knife and fork you would not have taken him to have been over 16, of course he knew Dr. Perry was on hand and on to his job. It was a little hard on the children, but when Deboe and Peter Lamb began to slow up the children laughed.

It was a little hard on some of us who are not trained to eat with our forks. Bro. Pickens' wife is a great big hearted woman and she said do just do like you would at home.

So as the day was fast spent and the sun was almost setting, we took our leave, praying God's richest blessings upon Bro. Pickens and family and wishing them a happy New Year.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation even to very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses, "The Sacred Herb." Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. Sold by James H. Orme.

DEADLOCK ALL SET

Extra Rivalry Have Apparently Been Applied to Kentucky Senatorial Situation.

MAY HOLD ALL THROUGH SESSION

The Six Anti-Beckham Legislators Show No Sign of Receding From the Position They Have Assumed From the Start—in the Meantime All Legislation Is Being More or Less Neglected—Interesting Notes From Our Correspondent at the State Capital.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 21.—The predicted and expected deadlock in the race for United States senator is now a certainty, and it may continue till the end of the legislative session. Since the balloting began on Jan. 11 all the Republican members of the legislature have steadily voted for their nominee, former Governor W. O. Bradley, while six Democrats have declined to vote for their nominee, former Senator J. C. W. Beckham. That is the situation in a nutshell, and of course there is all sorts of speculation as to the probable outcome, but as a matter of fact no one knows what the result will be. A dark horse may win any day or the election may go over till the next legislature, and meanwhile all legislation will be neglected.

If the senatorial race could be settled next week there would be a pretty hot fire over the proposed temperance legislation. Senator P. C. Christian has already introduced two important temperance bills that will be fought bitterly by the temperance interests. The first bill is one to make the county rural option law apply to every county in the state, whether the county contains a city of the first, second, third or fourth class or not. The second bill is more sweeping than the first, for it proposes to give the people a chance to vote on an amendment to the constitution which will permit the whole state to vote wet or dry, as was done in Georgia and other Southern states. Only two proposed amendments to the constitution can be voted on at any one election, and as more than a half dozen bills proposing a vote on as many amendments are already pending, it will be a race as to which will be the lucky two to get to the people. This may hamper the chances of the state prohibition bill from being passed, as the friends of other measures will work for their own pet measures.

If the senatorial race could be settled next week there would be a pretty hot fire over the proposed temperance legislation. Senator P. C. Christian has already introduced two important temperance bills that will be fought bitterly by the temperance interests. The first bill is one to make the county rural option law apply to every county in the state, whether the county contains a city of the first, second, third or fourth class or not. The second bill is more sweeping than the first, for it proposes to give the people a chance to vote on an amendment to the constitution which will permit the whole state to vote wet or dry, as was done in Georgia and other Southern states. Only two proposed amendments to the constitution can be voted on at any one election, and as more than a half dozen bills proposing a vote on as many amendments are already pending, it will be a race as to which will be the lucky two to get to the people. This may hamper the chances of the state prohibition bill from being passed, as the friends of other measures will work for their own pet measures.

The right to put the American Tobacco company, known as the tobacco trust, out of business in Kentucky has already begun in the legislature. Representative Crocelius of Pendleton county has introduced a bill which makes it unlawful for that company or any other trust or combine of its kind to do business in Kentucky. If the trust violates the provisions of the bill the amount of the fine inflicted will be unlimited, as it is left to the discretion of the jury trying the case. The bill also seeks to prevent the agents or buyers of the trust from purchasing tobacco in the state, as a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for one year is provided for such offense.

Mr. Crocelius also introduced a bill providing a penalty for anyone who shall break his contract to pool his tobacco or other crop. It is understood that the American Tobacco company has several influential agents in Frankfort who will make every effort to have these bills defeated, but the temper of the legislature indicates that they will be passed.

An effort will be made at this session to reduce the rate of state taxation from 50 cents on the $100 to 42½ cents on the $100. Representative Gus Richardson of Meade county has already prepared such a bill. In addition to the proposed reduction in the rate the bill proposes to abolish the present tax warrant system and will fix the first day of January each year as the final day upon which taxes can be paid. This will give the taxpayers two months more than they now have, as the last day under the present law is Nov. 1. The Richardson bill also proposes to change the manner of taxing dogs by placing dogs on the same footing as horses and other livestock, which are classed as property, so if a man owns a $50 dog he must pay the same tax on the dog that he pays on a $50 horse. There is so much prejudice against any sort of a dog tax, however, that it is hardly probable that this feature will be adopted, though it seems assured that the tax rate will be reduced unless the senatorial fight defeats all important legislation.

Senator Burnam of Madison county has introduced a bill providing for a vote on the question of amending the constitution that each bona fide housekeeper shall have $250 worth of land dwelling or appurtenances exempt from taxation. This will likely prove a very popular bill, for what the average property owner loves above everything else is to escape as much taxation as possible. As a matter of fact, though, such a law would greatly encourage thousands of renters to purchase homes.

At every session of the legislature from 1860 to 1910 bills are introduced and the author of each bill makes "cheap talk" about his bill being the most important one of all for the people, but as a rule not over one out of five of these bills ever gets beyond its second reading, and only about one-tenth of them become laws. Over 200 have already been introduced this session, the titles of the most important being as follows:

Bill making it a penitentiary offense to kill fish with dynamite or other explosive.

Bill requiring railroads to carry adult passengers at two cents per mile and one cent per mile for children under twelve years of age.

Bill to repeal the registration law so far as it applies to fifth and sixth class towns.

Bill providing that property of non-residents in the hands of a trust company or trustee shall pay taxes at the home of the owner and not at the home of the trustee.

Bill appropriating $75,000 for the establishment and maintenance of a state tuberculosis sanatorium.

Bill appropriating $400,000 to complete and furnish the new stables and $30,000 for a new mansion for the governor.

Bill to prohibit the playing of base-

Judges to $5,000.

Bill substituting electrocution for hanging of condemned criminals; the electrocution to take place in one of the penitentiaries.

Bill

permitting farmers to pool their crops and authorizing them to employ agents to sell the pooled crops for them.

Bill to prevent the importation of strike-breakers into this state.

Of course all the authors of the above bills are busy scheming with other legislators trying to pledge enough votes to pass his pet bill, and there are lots of "disinterested" lobby men on hand to boost certain bills and to delay and defeat others, but these politicians' promises are of the pie-crust variety—easily broken—and many of those bills will never pass either branch of the legislature. All of which reminds a legislator who has had some experience, of an apt story. He said his sister was trying to teach a little eight-year-old negro the catechism and a few facts about historical characters. He was putting him through the questioning one day and the little negro had answered very well, telling her how Samson was the strongest man, Methuselah the oldest man, and finally she asked

"Who was George Washington?"

"You never tol' me nuthin' 'bout him, Miss Lucy," he replied.

"Well, I will tell you now. He was the man who could not tell a lie," said Miss Lucy.

The little negro scratched his head for a minute as if puzzled, and then asked

Miss Lucy, "What wuz de matter wid him?"
